Granville Savings and Mortgage Corporation

W.S. Gange, for the appellant.

v. (23210)

Fraser G. Campbell et al. (Man.)

Richard W. Schwartz, for the respondents.

LA FOREST J. -- The Court is ready to render Judgment now. Justice Cory will read the Judgment of the Court.

CORY J. (orally for the Court) -- The appellant is a mortgage company and the respondents are members of a law firm.

The appellant was requested to lend money on a mortgage to be given by Mr. Smith, a client of the respondents. The appellant agreed to lend the money. It confirmed this in a letter to the respondents setting out some nine conditions to the disposition of the mortgage funds particularly that the mortgage would be a first charge on the property of Smith.

We agree with the finding of the trial Judge that the respondents were retained by the appellant to act on its behalf to obtain a first charge. There was ample evidence to properly support that finding.

There was clearly a special relationship existing between the appellant and respondents. Indeed this was conceded by the respondents. It follows that the respondents were required to exercise their special skills on behalf of the appellant.

The respondents argue that the appellant did not rely upon them. This contention cannot be accepted. It is true that the appellant did not specifically request the respondents to protect their interest. Nevertheless, the correspondence makes it clear that the appellant was relying upon the respondents to ensure that their mortgage was a first charge on the property. The respondents did not do so. They were thus negligent and in breach of their

LE JUGE LA FOREST -- La Cour est prête à rendre jugement séance tenante, lequel sera lu par le juge Cory.

LE JUGE CORY (oralement au nom de la Cour) -- L'appelante est une société de prêts hypothécaires et les intimés font partie d'un cabinet d'avocats.

On a demandé à l'appelante de prêter une somme qui serait garantie par hypothèque consentie par M. Smith, un client des intimés. L'appelante a accepté de prêter la somme demandée. Elle a confirmé cela par lettre envoyée aux intimés, dans laquelle elle a assorti la disposition des fonds garantis par hypothèque de quelque neuf conditions, dont celle que l'hypothèque constitue une charge de premier rang sur le bien de M. Smith.

Nous souscrivons à la conclusion du juge de première instance selon laquelle l'appelante a retenu les services des intimés pour qu'ils obtiennent, en son nom, une charge de premier rang. Il y avait assez d'éléments de preuve pour bien justifier cette conclusion.

Il existait clairement un rapport spécial entre l'appelante et les intimés. En fait, les intimés ont reconnu cela. Il s'ensuit que les intimés devaient exercer leurs compétences spéciales au nom de l'appelante.

Les intimés font valoir que l'appelante ne s'en remettait pas à eux. Cette prétention ne saurait être acceptée. Il est vrai que l'appelante n'a pas demandé expressément aux intimés de protéger ses intérêts. Néanmoins, il ressort nettement de la correspondance que l'appelante comptait sur les intimés pour assurer que son hypothèque serait une charge de premier rang sur le bien en cause. Les intimés ne l'ont pas fait. Ils ont ainsi fait preuve de duty to the appellant.

In the circumstances presented by this case, the respondents as lawyers had clear options open to them. They could have attempted to secure a first charge for the appellant by obtaining postponement of the judgments against their client Smith. They were well aware at all material times of these outstanding judgments. If they could not obtain a postponement they should have advised the appellant. Alternatively, they could have refused to act for the appellant so that it could have retained other solicitors to act on its behalf.

What was not open to the respondents was to act for the appellant and fail to advise them of the potential problems that could arise from the existing judgments against Smith.

The respondents are then liable to the appellant for the damages flowing from the breach of their duty. Those damages included the costs incurred in the law suits brought by the appellant seeking to maintain the priority of their charge. These were the only damages seriously contested by the respondents.

In light of these conclusions it is not necessary for us to consider the issue of fiduciary duty although the trial Judge may well have been correct in finding that there was as well a fiduciary duty owed by the respondents to the appellant.

In the result, the appeal will be allowed, the Order of the Court of Appeal set aside and the Judgment at trial restored. The appellant will have its costs of these proceedings throughout.

négligence et ont manqué à leur obligation envers l'appelante.

Dans les circonstances de la présente affaire, les intimés disposaient, en tant qu'avocats, de choix clairs. Ils auraient pu tenter d'obtenir une charge de premier rang pour l'appelante au moyen du report des jugements contre leur client Smith. Ils connaissaient bien, en tout temps pertinent, l'existence de ces jugements pendant. Ils auraient dû, le cas échéant, aviser l'appelante de l'impossibilité d'obtenir un report. Subsidiairement, ils auraient pu refuser d'agir pour l'appelante de sorte que celle-ci aurait pu retenir les services d'autres avocats pour la représenter.

Ce que les intimés ne pouvaient faire, c'était agir pour l'appelante sans l'aviser des problèmes que pourraient poser les jugements déjà prononcés contre M. Smith.

Les intimés sont donc responsables envers l'appelante des dommages résultant du manquement à leur obligation. Ces dommages comprennent les coûts des procédures judiciaires que l'appelante a engagées dans le but de maintenir la priorité de sa charge. Ce sont là les seuls dommages que les intimés ont contestés sérieusement.

Compte tenu de ces conclusions, il n'est pas nécessaire que nous examinions la question de l'obligation fiduciaire même si le juge de première instance peut bien avoir eu raison de conclure que les intimés avaient également une obligation fiduciaire envers l'appelante.

En définitive, le pourvoi est accueilli, l'ordonnance de la Cour d'appel est annulée et le jugement de première instance est rétabli. L'appelante a droit à ses dépens dans toutes les cours.

DISMISSED WITH COSTS / REJETÉE AVEC DÉPENS

Nature of the case:

Taxation - Assessment - Statutes - Interpretation - Speculative trading in futures contracts -If more than one accounting method is consistent with generally accepted accounting principles and the income tax law neither requires nor proscribes the use of any particular accounting method, is the taxpayer entitled to his choice of method for purposes of computing income from the business under s.9 of the Income Tax Act or must he choose that method which is appropriate to the business and which most nearly accurately reflects his income from the business for the year? - If the taxpayer must choose that method which most accurately reflects his income position, is that method one which permits the accounting for the loss leg of a spread transaction separate from and independent of the corresponding gain leg of that transaction?

Nature de la cause:

Droit fiscal - Évaluation - Lois - Interprétation - Transactions spéculatives sur des contrats éventuels - Si plus d'une méthode de comptabilité est conforme aux principes de comptabilité généralement reconnus et que le droit fiscal n'exige ni n'interdit l'utilisation d'une méthode comptable en particulier, le contribuable peut-il choisir une méthode aux fins du calcul du revenu tiré d'une entreprise aux termes de l'art. 9 de la Loi de l'impôt sur le revenu ou doit-il choisir la méthode qui convient à l'entreprise et qui représente de la façon la plus précise possible son revenu tiré d'une entreprise pour l'année? - Si le contribuable doit choisir la méthode qui représente de la façon la plus précise possible sa position en matière de revenu, cette méthode permet-elle de tenir compte des pertes découlant d'une opération commerciale échelonnée de manière distincte et indépendante des gains réalisés dans le cadre de cette opération?

Sa Majesté La Reine

Claude Provost, pour l'appellant.

c. (23355)

Serge Brassard(Crim.)(Qué.)

Yvan Lerner, pour l'intimé.

LE JUGE L'HEUREUX-DUBÉ (oralement au nom de la Cour) -- Cet appel nous vient de plein droit.

L'HEUREUX-DUBÉ J. (orally for the Court) -- This is an appeal as of right.

Nous ne sommes pas d'accord avec la majorité de la Cour d'appel en ce qui concerne l'effet du consentement de l'intimé à nombre d'ajournements des procédures. En l'absence de preuve que ces consentements représentent un acquiescement devant l'inévitable, ces consentements équivalent à une renonciation ou, provenant de l'accusé, lui sont imputables.

Compte tenu de ce qui précède et en l'absence de preuve de préjudice particulier autre que celui lui résultant du délai, appliquant les principes dégagés dans l'arrêt Morin c. Sa Majesté la Reine [1992] 1 R.C.S., 771, nous sommes d'accord avec Madame le juge Mailhot, dissidente, que le délai dont on se plaint ici n'était pas déraisonnable dans les circonstances.

En conséquence, l'appel est accueilli, les jugements de la Cour du Québec et de la Cour d'appel sont infirmés, l'arrêt des procédures cassé et le dossier est retourné à la Cour du Québec pour qu'il y soit procédé sur l'accusation.

We do not agree with the majority of the Court of Appeal as to the effect of the consents by the respondent to a number of the adjournments of the proceedings. In the absence of any evidence that these consents to acquiescence in the inevitable, the consents constituted waiver or, as actions of the accused, were attributable to him.

Taking this into account and the absence of evidence of prejudice other than such as might be inferred from the delay, and applying the principles and guidelines in R. v. Morin [1992] 1 S.C.R. 771, we agree with the conclusion of Mailhot J.A. that the delay herein was not unreasonable under the circumstances.

Consequently, the appeal is allowed, the judgments of the Court of Quebec and the Court of Appeal are reversed, the stay of proceedings is quashed and the file is returned to the Court of Quebec for trial.

RESERVED / EN DÉLIBÉRÉ

Nature of the case:

Criminal law - Offences - Physicians and surgeons - Evidence - Sexual assault - Voir dire - Admissibility of the expert's evidence - Respondent doctor convicted of four counts of sexual assault, contrary to s. 246 (now s. 271) of the Criminal Code, R.S., c. C-34 - Trial judge excluding the expert evidence as character evidence not falling within the proper sphere of expert evidence.

Nature de la cause:

Droit criminel - Infractions - Médecins et chirurgiens - Preuve - Agression sexuelle - Voir dire - Recevabilité du témoignage de l'expert - Le médecin intimé a été déclaré coupable de quatre chefs d'accusation d'agression sexuelle, contrevenant ainsi à l'art. 246 (maintenant l'art. 271) du Code criminel, L.R., ch. C-34 - Le juge du procès a rejeté le témoignage de l'expert comme une preuve de réputation qui ne s'inscrit pas dans le cadre d'un témoignage d'expert.

v. (23061)

Her Majesty The Queen (Crim.)(Ont.)

RESERVED / EN DÉLIBÉRÉ

Nature of the case:

Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms - Criminal law - Procedural law - Trial - Defence - Evidence - Appellants convicted on counts of conspiracy to traffic in drugs - District Court of Ontario dismissing application to cross-examine "sub-affiants" of information to obtain wiretap authorizations - District Court of Ontario dismissing Wilson application - District Court of Ontario dismissing application to exclude evidence - Court of Appeal dismissing appeals - Whether the Court of Appeal for Ontario erred in ruling that the trial judge did not err in refusing application to call police officers as witnesses on the wiretap voir dire and in refusing to order production of documents and material relevant to the validity of the judicial authorizations - Whether the Court of Appeal erred in refusing to reverse the ruling of the trial judge that evidence obtained after an unreasonable search on the Appellant Farinacci's residence ought not to be excluded - Whether the Court of Appeal erred in not ruling that the trial judge should have found that intercepted communications of the Appellant Jeffreys were unlawfully intercepted and inadmissible in evidence.

Nature de la cause:

Charte canadienne des droits et libertés - Droit criminel - Droit de la procédure - Procès - Défense - Preuve - Les appelants ont été déclarés coupables à l'égard de chefs d'accusation de complot de trafic de stupéfiants - La Cour de district de l'Ontario a rejeté la requête visant le contre-interrogatoire des «souscripteurs d'affidavit» qui avaient fourni des renseignements aux fins des autorisations d'interception de communications privées - La Cour de district de l'Ontario a rejeté la demande de type Wilson - La Cour de district de l'Ontario a rejeté une demande d'exclusion d'éléments de preuve - La Cour d'appel de l'Ontario a rejeté les appels - La Cour d'appel de l'Ontario a-t-elle commis une erreur en statuant que le juge de première instance n'avait pas commis d'erreur en refusant de faire droit à la requête visant à faire témoigner les policiers dans le cadre du voir-dire concernant l'interception de communications privées et en refusant d'ordonner la production de documents et de matériel se rapportant à la validité des autorisations judiciaires? - La Cour d'appel a-t-elle commis une erreur en refusant d'infirmer la décision du juge de première instance qu'il ne devrait pas y avoir exclusion des éléments de preuve obtenus par suite d'une perquisition abusive dans la résidence de l'appelant

Farinacci? - La Cour d'appel a-t-elle commis une erreur en ne statuant pas que le juge de première instance aurait dû conclure que les communications de l'appelant Jeffreys avaient été illégalement interceptées et se trouvaient en conséquence inadmissibles en preuve?
