v. (25125)

GRANTED / ACCORDÉE

The applicant's cross-motion requesting an oral hearing herein is denied.

The letter to Dr. Sharon A. Williams dated October 2, 1995 expressing a legal opinion constitutes argument and is not proper a matter for an affidavit in support of the leave to appeal application. It should, therefore, be struck from the record together with references thereto in the material filed including para. 6 of the supporting affidavit of Robert Borden sworn on January 25, 1996. The other material which is the subject of the motion to strike relates to the importance of the issues or is explanatory of the record. As to the material other than the opinion of Dr. William's filed in the record with the permission of the trial judge, though not admitted in evidence on the ground that it would not have altered the result, it may be found useful in giving consideration to the leave application. It is, therefore, "required" within the meaning of Rule 23(1)(c)(ii).

The motion to strike is, therefore, granted in part as follows:

The Order will go striking out the letter of Dr. Sharon A. Williams dated October 2, 1995 and references thereto including para. 6 of the affidavit of Robert Borden sworn on January 25, 1996.

Costs will follow the result. The applicant will have 14 days from this date to file a revised factum. Time for the respondents to file their material is extended accordingly.

Motion for leave to intervene

Requête en autorisation d'intervention

BY/PAR: The Estate of Kristen French et al.

IN/DANS: Canadian Broadcasting Corporation

v. (24305)

Attorney General for New Brunswick et al. (N.B.)

DISMISSED / REJETÉE

As executors of their estates, the parents of Kristen French and Leslie Mahaffy seek leave to intervene in this appeal.

All Canadians were outraged by the tragic murders of Kristen French and Leslie Mahaffy. All Canadians are joined in their sympathy for the parents of these young girls. Everyone can readily understand the terrible sense of loss, anger and frustration which must be felt by the applicants.

Nonetheless, intervenor status is not granted automatically. Indeed, in many cases it is neither necessary nor helpful to the Court to grant leave to intervene. Usually, all the relevant arguments will be put forward by counsel acting on behalf of the parties. In some situations, to grant intervenors' status would be so unfair to the parties that it should not be considered. That is the situation in this case.

Leave to appeal was granted the appellants almost a year ago on the 30th of March 1995. That is significant for shortly after that date notice of this result together with a very brief summary of the case would have been published in the Supreme Court of Canada Bulletin of Proceedings. On the 3rd of October an order was granted to state a constitutional question. On the 16th of October the appellants' factum was duly filed and in that same month notices of intervention on the constitutional question were filed on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, the Attorney General of Quebec, the Attorney General of Ontario, the Attorney General of British Columbia, the Attorney General of Manitoba, the Attorney General of Alberta and the Attorney General of Saskatchewan. The appeal was inscribed in November 1995 and the date of 29 March 1996 was set for hearing the appeal. It was not until the 20th of February that the applicants' material was filed seeking leave to intervene.

The proposed intervenor wishes to file evidence which was adduced in a hearing before Mr. Justice Gravely of the Ontario Court General Division. It is clear that much of the evidentiary record which the applicant proposes to file is composed of expert evidence relating to issues which were not addressed by the parties to this appeal in the Courts below. It relates in part to proprietary and copyright interest in videotapes in the possession of the police, counsel for Paul Bernardo and the Ontario Court of Justice General Division. The application in the Ontario Court pertains to sealing orders and publication bans more than to the exclusion of the public and the media from court proceedings which is the prime subject of this appeal.

It is apparent that the evidence which it is sought to introduce would raise issues which are not relevant to the appeal itself. This would seriously prejudice the parties. Even if the parties wished to respond to the evidence the applicant wishes to file they not possibly obtain expert evidence in time for the hearing of the appeal. The appeal cannot be based upon evidence which was not before the courts below. To do so would place an impossible burden on the parties. As well, it would be unfair to the courts below who would not have an opportunity to consider and comment upon it. Those comments would of course be of value to this court.

Nor would an adjournment provide a ready and simple solution. It is impossible to substitute another appeal for this one at such short notice. Many Canadians would like to put forward their positions in cases which they believe present issues of public importance. Yet, because of the scarcity of time and the need to carefully allocate judicial time they cannot be heard as quickly as they would like if at all. It would be unfair to all the others parties in other cases awaiting their turn before this court to routinely or readily grant an adjournment in order to grant an application for intervenor status brought at the eleventh hour.

In summary, to allow this intervention at this late stage would be unfair to the parties in this appeal, to parties in appeals awaiting hearing, to the courts below and to this court. Further I am not at all convinced that the interventions would be of benefit to the court.

I would note in passing that the concept that an application made at this late date should not be accepted as a result of the unfairness it would occasion the parties is not a novel one. There is recent precedent for reaching just such a conclusion in R. v. Gladstone (March the 20th, 1995). The application is therefore dismissed.

LE JUGE EN CHEF (oralement) -- Eu égard à la nouvelle preuve devant nous, la seule conclusion possible est d'ordonner un nouveau procès, et un nouveau procès est ordonné. L'appel est accueilli.

THE CHIEF JUSTICE (orally) -- In view of the fresh evidence before the Court, the only possible conclusion is that a new trial should be ordered, and a new trial is ordered. The appeal is allowed.

Her Majesty The Queen

v. (24296)

James Keegstra

Her Majesty The Queen (Crim.)(Alta.)

THE CHIEF JUSTICE (orally) -- Mr. Christie, as you always do, you made a very highly professional presentation and we appreciate the quality of your presentation. Nevertheless your cross-appeal will be failing and we need not hear from you, Mr. Watson and the others, and I call upon our brother Iacobucci J. to give the reasons of the Court.

IACOBUCCI J. -- We are all of the view that this appeal should be allowed. With respect to the handling by the trial judge of the requests made by the jury for a copy of the transcript of the evidence of Robert David and for a copy of the applicable section of the Criminal Code, we agree substantially with the dissenting reasons of Foisy J.A. in the Alberta Court of Appeal.

With respect to the argument that the reverse onus contained in s. 319(3)(a) of the Criminal Code, Jack Watson, Q.C. and J. Steven Koval, Q.C., for the appellant.

Douglas H. Christie, for the respondent and the appellant on cross-appeal.

Jack Watson, Q.C. and J. Steven Koval, Q.C., for the respondent on cross-appeal.

Robert J. Frater and Erin McKey, for the intervener the A.G. of Canada.

Michael Bernstein, for the intervener the A.G. for Ontario.

Mark J. Sandler and Marvin Kurz, for the intervener the Human Rights of B'nai Brith Canada.

LE JUGE EN CHEF (oralement) -- Maître Christie, nous apprécions la qualité de votre exposé qui, comme d'habitude, a été fait de manière très professionnelle. Néanmoins, votre pourvoi incident échoue, et il ne sera pas nécessaire de vous entendre M<sup>e</sup> Watson et les autres. J'invite mon collègue le juge Iacobucci à exposer les motifs de notre Cour.

R.S.C., 1985, c. C-46, contravenes s. 11(d) of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, we are of the opinion that the decision of the Court in R. v. Keegstra, [1990] 3 S.C.R. 697, is a complete answer. In that decision, the Court concluded that, although s. 319(3)(a) was inconsistent with s. 11(d) of the Charter, it was justified as a reasonable limit within the meaning of s. 1. The decision of the Court in R. v. Laba, [1994] 3 S.C.R. 965, is distinguishable from the case at bar.

With respect to the other arguments raised by the respondent in support of the Court of Appeal's decision, we reject these arguments as they are without merit. Specifically, the argument for a stay because of delay cannot be raised since it is a remedy that does not support the order of the Court of Appeal directing a new trial. The trial judge made no error in charging the jury with respect to the various elements contained in s. 319 of the Criminal Code. Notwithstanding any delay in disclosure of the evidence of Dr. Segal, we agree with the trial judge that there was no prejudice in the circumstances.

Accordingly, the appeal is allowed and the cross-appeal is dismissed, the judgment of the Alberta Court of Appeal is set aside, and the conviction is restored, and the matter is remitted to the Court of Appeal so that the accused's sentence appeal can be disposed of.

LE JUGE IACOBUCCI -- Nous sommes tous d'avis qu'il y a lieu d'accueillir le présent pourvoi. En toute déférence pour la manière dont le juge du procès a traité les demandes faites par le jury en vue d'obtenir une transcription du témoignage de Robert David et une copie de l'article applicable du Code criminel, nous souscrivons, pour l'essentiel, aux motifs de dissidence du juge Foisy de la Cour d'appel de l'Alberta.

En ce qui concerne l'argument voulant que l'inversion du fardeau de la preuve prévue à l'al. 319(3)a) du Code criminel, L.R.C. (1985), ch. C-46, contrevienne à l'al. 11d) de la Charte canadienne des droits et libertés, nous sommes d'avis que la décision de la Cour dans R. c. Keegstra, [1990] 3 R.C.S. 697, y répond entièrement. Dans cette décision, la Cour a conclu que, même si l'al. 319(3)a) était incompatible avec l'al. 11d) de la Charte, il était justifié en tant que limite raisonnable au sens de l'article premier. La décision de la Cour dans R. c. Laba, [1994] 3 R.C.S. 965, peut être distinguée de la présente affaire.

Quant aux autres arguments que l'intimé a avancés à l'appui de la décision de la Cour d'appel, nous les rejetons étant donné qu'ils ne sont pas fondés. Plus précisément, l'argument en faveur d'un arrêt des procédures pour cause de délai ne saurait être avancé parce qu'il s'agit d'une réparation qui n'étaye pas l'ordonnance de nouveau procès de la Cour d'appel. Le juge du procès n'a commis aucune erreur en donnant au jury des directives relativement aux divers éléments de l'art. 319 du Code criminel. Indépendamment de tout délai écoulé avant la communication du témoignage de M. Segal, nous sommes d'accord avec le juge du procès pour dire qu'aucun préjudice n'a été causé dans les circonstances.

En conséquence, le pourvoi principal est accueilli et le pourvoi incident rejeté, larrêt de la Cour d'appel de l'Alberta est annulé et la déclaration de culpabilité rétablie, et l'affaire est renvoyée devant la Cour d'appel pour qu'elle puisse statuer sur l'appel que l'accusé a interjeté contre sa sentence.

We would answer the constitutional question (paraphrased) as follows:

1. Does s. 319(3)(a) of the Criminal Code, R.S.C., 1985, c. C-46, infringe s. 11(d) of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

Response: The answer is yes.

2. If so, is s. 319(3)(a) of the Criminal Code a reasonable limit on the s. 11(d) Charter right pursuant to s. 1 of the Charter.

Response: The answer is yes.

Nous sommes d'avis de répondre ainsi à la question constitutionnelle (paraphrasée):

1. L'alinéa 319(3)a) du Code criminel, L.R.C. (1985), ch. C-46, viole-t-il l'al. 11d) de la Charte canadienne des droits et libertés?

Réponse: Oui.

2. Dans l'affirmative, l'al. 319(3)a) du Code criminel constitue-t-il une restriction raisonnable du droit garanti par l'al. 11d) de la Charte, conformément à l'article premier de la Charte?

Réponse: Oui.

SOPINKA J. (orally for the Court) -- The appeal is allowed for the reasons of Chief Justice Dubin. The conviction and judgment of the Court of Appeal are set aside and a new trial is ordered.

LE JUGE SOPINKA (oralement au nom de la Cour) -- Le pourvoi est accueilli pour les raisons exposées par le juge en chef Dubin. La déclaration de culpabilité et l'arrêt de la Cour d'appel sont annulés et un nouveau procès est ordonné.

SOPINKA J. (orally for the Court) --We are all of the view that the appeal should be dismissed. Assuming without deciding that there was a breach of s. 8 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms, we agree with the majority of the Court of Appeal that admission of the evidence would not bring the administration of justice into disrepute.

Manuel A. Azevedo for the appellant.

S. David Frankel, Q.C. and John M. Loo for the respondent.

LE JUGE SOPINKA (oralement au nom de la Cour)-- Nous sommes tous d'avis qu'il y a lieu de rejeter le pourvoi. À supposer sans en décider qu'il y a eu violation de l'art. 8 de la Charte canadienne des droits et libertés, nous sommes d'accord avec la Cour d'appel à la majorité pour dire que l'utilisation de la preuve n'est pas susceptible de déconsidérer l'administration de la justice.
